Labor law support for SE formation

Establishing an SE (European stock corporation) raises a number of strategic and legal issues to be considered from a labor law point of view. We provide company management with comprehensive advice, from the beginning of employee involvement to registration of the SE in the commercial register, including preparation of all the required documentation.

In particular, we conduct negotiations with the Special Negotiating Committee on behalf of company management and take the company's specific interests into account when concluding participation agreements. We also register your newly formed SE in the European Company Database (ECDB).

We can also offer employee training on the procedure for Special Negotiating Committee elections, as well as on the Committee's duties and the duties of an SE works council.

Specifically, we focus on:

- Employee involvement procedure
- Negotiations with the Special Negotiating Committee
- Participation agreements
- Special Negotiating Committee/SE works council training
