

Workplace Law

Strategic workplace advice

We see labor law as an important means of supporting your corporate strategy. For this reason, we can structure your labor relationships so as to ensure that you can achieve your goals in the best possible way, while maintaining your corporate culture and alignment with the corporate strategy. Labor law measures are also dependent on the economic environment. Strategic workplace advice is consequently more wide-ranging than labor law - it is legal advice on the structuring of working environments, taking these factors into account.

We see ourselves as strategic advisors with regard to the development and structuring of your HR goals and HR concepts. As a result, it is important for us to know and understand you, your company and your strategy, and to focus our advice accordingly. We are not skeptics; instead, we want to make new approaches possible, together with you.

Specifically, we focus on:

- Strategic advice on HR issues
- Implementation of entrepreneurial concepts in labor law
- Support during conflicts in working life
- Cooperation with works councils
- Drafting of employment contracts in accordance with your employer brand